Jason Hundley plead guilty to attempted illegal possession of alcohol, a class B misdemeanor, reduced from a class A misdemeanor charge of illegal possession, after a class B misdemeanor of assault was dismissed. He also plead guilty to driving under the influence and driving on revocation.

Heber Man Dies in Fall From Cliff After Car Hits Tree

A 40-year old Heber City man recently was dazed after running his car into a tree, and fell off a cliff to his death Friday night.

Thomas Schofield's body was found in Hobbie Creek Canyon, about two miles east of Big Water, according to Utah County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Smith. The deputy had responded to a call to investigate an abandoned vehicle in the canyon and found that it had hit a tree. He saw glasses and a hat a few yards away, near the edge of the cliff, and discovered the body about 25 feet below on some rocks in a creek.

Detective Dave Bennett said, "It was really dark and it looks like Schofield started walking down the trail after the accident, and he went right off the side of the cliff."
